

Survivors: Tell your story!

The City of Seattle and King County Offices of Emergency Management are seeking survivors from natural disasters or catastrophes. Tell us your story, including what you did to prepare as well as what you wish you would have done. We may use your experience to encourage others as part of a regional campaign to help Puget Sound residents survive and make it through when a catastrophe strikes.

What is involved?

- On-camera interview
- Video and photography shoot
- Travel to shoot location (in Puget Sound region)
- Time commitment of 2 hours
- Willing to share your photo and story publicly

How to respond:

- Send us your story. Tell us what happened and what you did or didn't do to prepare. If you did prepare, let us know if it involved making a plan, building a supply kit or coordinating with neighbors.
- Provide your name, contact information (email/phone) and photo (if possible).
- Email the above information by Wednesday, January 4, 2012 to: JoAnn Jordan, Seattle Office of Emergency Management at JoAnn.Jordan@seattle.gov.
